Hackney Today is published by the London Borough of Hackney. It has a print run of 108,000 copies and is delivered free to every home and business in the borough. The Council uses it to communicate public service information to residents. It is published fortnightly in order to carry statutory advertising, such as planning and traffic notices, which is cheaper for the taxpayer than using another local paper. The law does not allow for statutory notices to be published solely online or in a less frequent publication.

The paper's official, door-to-door delivery is 91,665 copies per issue, Audit Bureau of Circulations (ABC)

The spokespersons

OVER 200 delegates gathered at the 6th annual Hackney Cycling Conference on 27 April, hosted by the Council, consultancy Steer Davis Gleave, and the Hackney Cycling Campaign.

The conference was kicked off in entertaining style by Dr Ben Goldacre, the author of best-selling book 'Bad Science'.

He highlighted pitfalls for policy makers including bad questions, unrepresentative samples, and seeing patterns in random data, warning they should 'trust no-one, only the data'.

With Dr Goldacre's words ringing in their ears, the other speakers explored the theme of cycling as a catalyst for healthy neighbourhoods.

The speakers, who ranged from engineers to academics and campaign groups like the London Cycling Campaign and Living Streets, all agreed that the number one aim must be to reduce the dominance of cars.

Dr Will Norman, London's Cycling and Walking Commissioner, said: "London faces an inactivity crisis... we need to build activity into people's daily lives."

Not surprising then that many speakers referred to TfL's

Healthy Streets Approach: a strategy to help Londoners use cars less and walk, cycle and use public transport more.

There are 10 indicators which can be used to score a street – the higher the score, the 'healthier' it is – such as people choosing to walk, cycle and use public transport, it is easy to cross the road and has shade, shelter and places to rest.

The audience heard how the healthy streets indicators could be applied to three locations on the Cycle Superhighway 1 route in Hackney, around Leonard Street circus, EC2A; Culford Road, N1; and Wordsworth Road, N16.

However, it was noted that turning the A10 into a healthy street would be a challenge, as it will need to be tied into other major changes, such as the removal of the Stoke Newington gyratory.

It was also confirmed that the Council is working with TfL on two schemes to improve safety for pedestrians and create space for cycling on Seven Sisters Road, N4, and Wick Road, E9, which will be consulted on this year.

Stik sale helps LGBTQI+ project

Artist Stik with his Hackney Pride banner, which was auctioned at Christie's. Below: His Sleeping Baby artwork for Homerton hospital

A LOCAL youth charity will benefit from extra funding after the Hackney Pride Banner, designed by internationally renowned artist Stik, was sold at auction for over £12,000.

All of the proceeds from the Christie's sale last month will go to Project Indigo, which supports LGBTQI+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, plus) young people in the borough.

The money raised will be used to train young people to support and curate an exhibition of Hackney's rich and diverse LGBTQI+ heritage.

The exhibition will take place at Hackney Museum during LGBT History Month 2018.

Hard copies of the archive created will also be distributed to all local schools and will be permanently available online as a public resource. As a result, people will better understand Hackney's LGBTQI+ legacy, empowering people both locally and globally.

Stik, who lives in Hackney, said: "I am delighted to have the opportunity to make this project possible. "This exhibition will celebrate the radical queer legacy of our borough and give credit to the people who fought hard for the liberties we enjoy so freely here today."

Stik is well known for his murals, including Sleeping Baby, which was auctioned to raise money for Homerton hospital.

The Hackney Pride banner was created in collaboration with the Council to represent the borough at the Pride in London parade last summer.

Free music concert will help spread message of harmony

CLASSICAL, world music, and rock are just some of the sounds that will be heard at the Speaker of Hackney's free concert on 6 May.

The 'Hackney in Harmony' concert will take place at St John of Jerusalem Church, Lauriston Road, E9. There will be music from a Turkish Saz ensemble, the Woven Gold refugee choir, soprano Emma Dogliani as well as local choirs and talented young musicians. The Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Rosemary Sales, with other councillors, will be also joining the Festival Chorus, to sing music by Verdi, Beethoven and Puccini.

The concert will feature classical, world and rock music

The Speaker of Hackney said: "Making music brings people together. With hate crime and intolerance on the rise across the country, music is a fantastic way of connecting communities and building harmony."

As well as celebrating Hackney's diverse communities and talents, the event will help raise funds for the Speaker's charities: Hackney Migrant Centre and North London Action for the Homeless.

Entry is free and there will be a collection for the charities, as well as a bar selling beer, wine and soft drinks. The concert will begin at 7pm (doors open at 6.30pm).

Tickets can be reserved by e-mailing: speaker@hackney.gov.uk. The ticket also allows entry to a prize draw. For more information, visit: www.facebook.com/hackneyspeaker

Community groups win grants to fund programmes

COMMUNITY gardening, collective cooking and film screenings are just some of the ways residents will benefit from the Council's small grants fund.

Eighteen groups will share a slice of the £83,000 voluntary and community sector grants programme to help deliver community-focused activities.

Hestia, a charity that supports survivors of domestic violence, will provide activities for mothers and children who are recovering from domestic abuse.

For green-fingered residents nearly £5,000 will help Hackney Blends, a gardening for health project.

Elsewhere, Cinephilia

will host a screening programme bringing classic films back to life for residents of all ages to enjoy together.

Joanna Sumner, the Council's Assistant Chief Executive, said: "All of these worthwhile projects help make Hackney a great place to live and work."

"The valuable work led by the voluntary and community sector makes a big difference to many people's lives and ensures the borough is a place where everyone can feel included."

Organisations can bid for grants ranging from £1,000 to £5,000.

The next round of applications is now open and closes on 17 May.

To apply visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/community-grants

Cinephilia will be screening classic films across the borough

Lido shut for revamp

London Fields Lido will be closed while changing rooms are refurbished and the pool wall is repaired. It is due to re-open in late summer

LONDON Fields Lido has closed for repairs and refurbishment until late summer.

The work was necessary after tiles cracked and came away from the pool wall last year. A temporary barrier was installed to stabilise the wall, so the lido could continue to operate safely while the Council secured a contractor to carry out the full repairs.

Tests identified a problem with the screed layer between the pool tank and the render holding the tiles, and subsequently confirmed that all the tiles, screed and render would need to be removed and replaced.

“The works are essential and the risks will be minimised if they are undertaken during the warmer weather”

The Council will use the closure as an opportunity to upgrade the lido's indoor changing rooms and main reception area.

Kim Wright, the Council's Group Director, Neighbourhoods and Housing, said: “I understand that closing the lido will be frustrating for regular users, but the works are essential and the risks will be minimised if they are undertaken during the warmer weather.

“Taking care to ensure the work is conducted in the best circumstances means we have been able to get lido users' input on the designs for the refurbished indoor changing rooms and reception area.

“The design maintains separate male and female changing areas and also significantly improves current facilities through the inclusion of lockers, individual shower and changing cubicles, baby change and family changing facilities.

“This means swimmers will be able to enjoy better, modern facilities when the lido reopens in late summer.”

The work on the lido will be carried out by Etec Contract Services and APS Pool Contracting.

News in brief

Deadline for voter registration

FOLLOWING the announcement of a general election on 8 June, residents who are not registered to vote at their current address are being urged to do so online before the deadline of 22 May.

Since the introduction of new rules, everyone must apply to go on the electoral register individually. It may be that the Council needs further information in order to verify people's identity. If so, the Council will write to residents. It is important that people respond to a request for information as quickly as possible to ensure they are on the register and can vote.

People who are already registered to vote at their current address do not need to register again. Anyone who is not sure if they are registered should call: 020 8356 3000.

Those who wish to vote by post, if they are going to be on holiday for example, or are unable to get to their polling station on election day, has until 5pm on 23 May to apply for a postal vote.

The deadline for proxy votes, which enable another person to vote on an individual's behalf, is 5pm on 31 May. For more information, visit: www.gov.uk/register-to-vote

Mosque to hold an open day

STOKE Newington Road's Aziziye Mosque is throwing open its doors to people of all faiths and none, for a special community open day. The event, due to be held on 14 May, aims to give local people the chance to take part in guided tours of the mosque and watch live prayers.

Organisers are encouraging the public to take part in question and answer sessions, airing any queries they might have about the Muslim faith.

Presentations are planned for 11am and 2pm, while displays and free refreshments will be available throughout the day.

The open day is taking place at Aziziye Mosque, 117 Stoke Newington Road, on 14 May. For more information, e-mail: hackneymosque@gmail.com

Plans for redevelopment of the Britannia Leisure Centre site are approved

PLANS for a brand new leisure centre, a new secondary school and housing – including about 80 affordable homes – have been approved by the Council.

The redevelopment of the Britannia Leisure Centre site, in Hyde Road, Shoreditch, will provide 900 much-needed secondary school places. As well as a sixth form; state-of-the-art leisure facilities, including a café and toilets accessible from Shoreditch Park; and about 480 new homes, 80 of which will be affordable, to part fund the community facilities.

The design of the new leisure centre will be developed in consultation with users, but the Council expects it to include, as a minimum, a 25-metre swimming pool, learner pool, confidence pool for younger children, children's soft play area, squash courts, fitness centre, spinning studio, two exercise studios, sports hall, and multi-use games area. The existing leisure centre will only close when the new one is open.

The existing Britannia Leisure Centre was built in two stages in the 1970s and 1980s and is now coming to the end of its life. The cost of fully refurbishing the centre would be approximately £14million and would require it to close for 18 to 24 months.

The leisure centre will include state-of-the-art facilities

WHETHER it's music production, fashion, filmmaking, poetry or comic book design, Discover Young Hackney – one of the UK's biggest youth arts festivals – has it all on offer.

From May to September, close to 30 local cultural organisations will deliver a packed programme of events for young people aged 13 to 19, aiming to spark creativity and help them to discover pathways into training and careers in the arts.

They will get the opportunity to work with some of the industry's top professionals by taking part in a range of free or low-cost taster sessions, workshops and performances.

This year's festival focuses on Hackney as the creative heart of London, and includes sessions with big names like the London College of Fashion, Tropical Isles carnival group, Hackney Empire, and Geffrye Museum.

Petra Roberts, Cultural Programme Officer, said: "Hackney is the creative heart of London, that's why we want all young people in the borough to get involved and see what the cultural and creative industries here have to offer.

"Hackney Council is curating one of the biggest youth arts festivals in the UK that includes everything from DJ-ing to fashion design.

"If you're aged 13 to 19, sign up, get involved, find out more about a career in the arts, and have fun at the same time."

The award-winning festival has the arts covered, from acrobatics to playing the zither. With advice for professionals and beginners alike, it has something for everyone.

The festival starts on 19 May with the Alter Ego talent competition at Hackney Empire.

Hosted by Kat B and Snoochie Shy, with music from DJ Semo, it will feature top artists alongside the best talent that young Hackney has to offer; singers, dancers, rappers, and spoken word artists all vying for the title of 'Alter Ego 2017'.

Hackney is one of the most diverse places in the UK. In this regular feature, we profile the borough's great & good or just plain interesting

Flower of strength

By Harriet Worsley

THERE are more than 100,000 refugees living in the UK. They are over six times more likely to be unemployed than the national average, the women among them even more so.

But at Hackney City Farm, a small group of women are surrounding themselves with flowers in order to try and change that.

"They've signed up to a six-week training course. We pay for their travel and provide refreshments. Every week they learn new floristry techniques from the professional florists who lead the sessions," explains Olivia.

The arrangements they make in these sessions are then delivered to clients around London, including major companies like Oliver Wyman and HelloFresh.

"That's how we fund the programmes," she adds.

“We help women develop the skills they need to go on and find jobs, as well as the emotional stability they'll need to sustain them”

"The idea is to provide both practical advice and the therapeutic outlet of floristry," says Olivia Head.

She is explaining the ethos behind Bread and Roses, the organisation she launched last year with her co-founder Sneh Jani.

"We help women develop the skills they need to go on and find jobs, as well as the emotional stability they'll need to sustain them."

There are six women in the current Bread and Roses programme.

Some come from Eritrea, some from Syria, others from the Congo.

Over the next few months, Bread and Roses is also providing flowers for some big events, and the current group of women will be employed to help with each.

"They'll get the London living wage," says Olivia. Adding: "For many of the women, this will be the first time they've taken up any kind of employment in the UK, so it will be a big step for them."

On top of all this, Olivia is in the process of moving from one day job to another, this time at the established refugee charity Breaking Barriers.

It sounds like hard work but, says Olivia: "I always

Olivia Head, co-founder of Bread and Roses, which helps female refugees develop life and work skills knew I'd like to do something with a social impact."

Growing up in Bath, she watched her mother volunteer at a local homeless shelter and work as a teacher in a pupil referral unit. Her father ran medical charities.

"Their mantra was always: the best way to lead a fulfilling life is to get up each day and do something you find meaningful," says Olivia.

So while her friends were enjoying their freedom at university, Olivia decided to follow her mother's lead and volunteer at a hostel for the homeless.

"At first I was just doing the washing up," she says.

Adding: "Then I moved up to running activities for the residents. My favourite was the weekly spa sessions: eight blokes and me, chatting while sticking our feet into donated foot spas."

After university, however, Olivia found herself 'utterly clueless about how to put my ideals into practice'.

Until, that is, a friend sent her a link to Year Here, a Hackney-based programme for graduates who want to test and build organisations with a social purpose.

She applied, got in, and suddenly found herself thrown into a whirlwind of new information and people, including her future business partner Sneh Jani.

"Sneh had been a management consultant at Deloitte, and I was utterly intimidated by her. But we discovered we had a shared interest in working with refugees. And suddenly, we were developing a project together," says Olivia.

When it came to naming that new project, Olivia's mum provided inspiration yet again.

"She raised me on Ken Loach films, and I'd always had his film 'Bread and Roses' in the back of my mind as a beautiful message: working women having the right not only to bread to eat, but also to pleasure and the ability to flourish," explains Olivia.

Last year, Bread and Roses was born to do just that for refugee women.

More than 50 women have already taken its courses, some of them are already in employment or volunteering positions.

"The process of seeking asylum can be so damaging that even when it's over, people find themselves too traumatised to seek out work," says Olivia.

Adding: "In the future, we hope to be able to offer women more regular work ourselves. Wouldn't it be great if they could eventually go back into the refugee organisations through which we found them, and inspire more women to feel hope?"

DIG out your wellies and roll up your sleeves: Chelsea Fringe is returning to the borough.

Last year, the alternative horticultural festival hosted 350 community gardening events across the country.

In Hackney alone – across 16 days, three weekends and one bank holiday Monday – people can give new life to old shoes; grow a rainbow; make beauty products; and create wacky wallpaper.

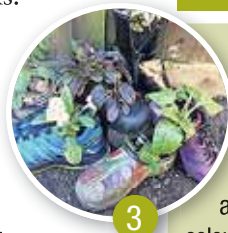

The festival will run from 20 May to 4 June. Here's our top Hackney picks:

These Shoes Are Made For Planting

11am-4pm, 1 June, Wilton Estate

... And one of these days these shoes are gonna grow some food for you. Bring your favourite old shoes, plant them with seeds or seedlings and take them home again with a new lease of life. There will be fun and games too, some crafts and a raffle. A perfect half-term day out.

Growing A Rainbow

11am-4pm, 3 June, Dalston Lane
Like people, vegetables come in all shapes, sizes and colours. They're all to be cherished too, argue the organisers of this event aimed at the LGBT+ community and friends. Find out how to grow more unusual varieties of veg, taste rainbow chard cooked in a number of different ways and then enjoy a slice of rainbow cake. Free but places are limited so book. For more details e-mail: k2gcic@gmail.com

Bee Beautiful

2pm-4pm, 20 May, King Henry's Walk
As well as honey, bees also create beeswax and propolis (from tree sap). These products can be turned into lip balm and face serum to take home after this workshop. Cost from £7.50 to £15 but places are limited. E-mail: info@khwgarden.org.uk

Patterns, Patterns, Patterns!

10.30am-4pm, 30 May to 2 June, Geffrye Museum
Throughout half term, the Geffrye is hosting free, daily workshops inspired by the colours and patterns found in the museum and its gardens. Kids can create stained glass, wallpaper and patterned prints. Places are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. Children aged 11 and under must be accompanied by an adult.

E-mail: info@geffrye-museum.org.uk

Events include: 1. Fun creativity for kids; 2. Rainbow vegetables; 3. Boots as planters; 4. Bee-based workshops

Get walking and get rewards

DISCOUNTS on food and drink are available for residents who join in this year's 'Walking is Rewarding' day.

People walking to work, school or getting out and about to enjoy the borough's parks and green spaces on 17 May will get discounts at 10 partner cafes and restaurants across the borough.

Just a brisk 10-minute walk every day is a great way to keep healthy and can help reduce the risk of chronic illness like heart disease, asthma and stroke.

Residents can claim their reward to use on Walking is Rewarding day by tweeting @greenerhackney; e-mailing; movegreener@hackney.gov.uk; or calling: 020 8356 1365 to receive a secret discount code.

Prizes are also being awarded for the best walking photos of the day. Simply post photos of your walk on social media using #hackneywalking to win.

Charging network expands

THE size of Hackney's electric vehicle charging network is set to increase and the Council's diesel vans will also be replaced with electric vehicles.

Charging points will increase in number from 16 at 12 locations, to 46 at 23 locations. It means that, from 2020, all households in the borough will be less than 500 metres from a vehicle charging point. The announcement comes as the Council is expanding its own electric fleet, with over 40 new vehicles expected to be in use by April next year. The Council is also offering three months free membership of Source London, which runs the electric car charging points, for new members. ZEN and art of cutting toxic air pollution in the City

A NETWORK of businesses tackling toxic air in Shoreditch and the City fringe has welcomed its 1,000th member.

The lettings transaction platform Goodlord has joined businesses in the City fringe Zero Emissions Network (ZEN), set up by Hackney, Islington and Tower Hamlets councils, to offer advice to help businesses reduce their impact on air quality.

Kim Wright, the Council's Group Director for Neighbourhoods and Housing, said: "We want to transform the area into an example of everything that London should be striving for, with people-friendly streets, prioritising low emissions transport and most importantly, clean air."

One business to benefit is Black Box Coffee, which followed the network's recommendations and used a ZEN grant to buy a cargo bike. Ben Murtaugh, owner of Black Box Coffee, said: "The network has been great for us, we managed to secure a grant for our cargo bike, which has been great.

"It looks really good, it's free to get around, it can fit everything inside it we need for an event and it's zero pollution: a bonus!"

Rooftop Cinema Club

From 7 May, Queen of Hoxton, 1-5 Curtain Road, EC2A 3JX

THERE may still be a chill in the air, but London's original rooftop cinema is back and they're providing blankets, just in case.

The annual pop-up screen, on the roof of the Queen of Hoxton pub, also provides comfy chairs and wireless headphones (so no angst over your neighbour's rustling popcorn).

This year, there's a film to suit all tastes. If you're a classic movie buff, Roman Polanski's Oscar-winning 'Chinatown' is screened on 16 May. More into musicals? 'La La Land' is on 23 May. 'Arrival' is scheduled for 29 May, for those who love a good alien apocalypse and then there's 'The Lego Batman Movie' (15 May), for your inner child. Screenings start at 9pm, but the roof is open all day, so get there early to enjoy drinks, food and, of course, the views.

The Queen of Hoxton's Rooftop cinema club kicks off with 'The Lost Boys' on 7 May. All events are for over 18s and tickets cost £15.

ART &
EXHIBITIONS*SPEEDWAY*Until 13 May, Fri-Sun, 12noon-6pm

The plot where Regent Studios stands was post-war waste ground, the terraced houses that once occupied it bombed, flattened and slum-cleared. Transition Gallery, a Regent Studio resident since 2006, has commissioned a group of artists to make contemporary responses to long forgotten histories. Speedway is a circulatory meshing of a sense of community, historical layering, leisure, and present day artistic originality. Free. Transition Gallery, Unit 25A, Regent Studios, 8 Andrews Road, E8 4QN. Info: 020 7254 4202; info@transitiongallery.co.uk; www.transitiongallery.co.uk/htmlpages/Speedway/Speedway_home.html

#GORGEOUSUntil 21 May, various opening times

Sara Pope's exhibition features the artist's trademark seductive lips through a range of media, including brand new neon light pieces, originals and screenprint editions. Pope explores the theme that we are surrounded by a visual stream of persuasion, through advertising and social media.

The more seductive the image, the greater the response. This has led to the rise of image perfectionism, where the boundaries between what's real and what is created are becoming ever more blurred. Free. Jealous East, 53 Curtain Road, Shoreditch, EC2A

MORGENLANDUntil 21 May, Tues-Sat*10am-6pm, Sun 12noon-5pm

Presenting photographic works by German artist Elger Esser, created during his travels in Lebanon, Egypt and Israel from 2004 to 2015. Morgenland (translated as morning land) refers to the East, aiming to convey a sense of reconciliation surrounded by regional differences and historical issues. Free. All ages. Parasol Unit Foundation For Contemporary Art, 14 Wharf Road, N1 7RW. Info: 020 7490 7373; info@parasol-unit.org; www.parasol-unit.org/elger-esser-morgenland

ISRAEL, PEOPLE AND PLACEUntil 27 May, various opening hours

Barry Alan Shaw's photographs explore Israeli culture through the everyday life of its people. Books from Hackney Central Library's collection will also be available to lend, including Israeli literature and books on the Hebrew language, as well as travel guides. Free. All ages. Hackney Museum, 1 Reading Lane, E8 1GQ. Info: 020 8356 4358; info@hackney.gov.uk

TERA BITES!Until 18 Jun, Thurs-Sat
11am-6pm, Sun 12noon-5pm

Artist Rckay Rax addresses humanity's place in an increasingly tech orientated and dependent world. The images in his exhibition, drawn on the most basic of iPad sketchbook apps, resemble Victorian spirit photography and fantastical adventures in scrying (foretelling the future). Free. All ages. The Residence Gallery, 229 Victoria Park Road, E9 7HD. Info: 020 8985 0321; info@theresidencegallery.com; www.residence-gallery.com/exhibitions/2017/rckay_rax/rckay_rax.htm

PIERS SANDERS4-14 May, various opening times

Retrospective exhibition of paintings, prints, pots and sculpture by the artist Piers Sanders who died of pancreatic cancer in 2014 at the age of 55. His abstract work shows the deep understanding of colour and form that he gained from many years of figurative painting and drawing. This exhibition is mounted by friends and family who feel he deserved more exposure. Free. All ages. Hull Rock Against Racism

3-26 May, Rich Mix, 35-47 Bethnal Green Road, E1 6LA

ROCK'N'ROLL and anti-racism come together in the next exhibition at Rich Mix. Hull Rock Against Racism brings together original silkscreen posters designed by the artist Richard Lees between 1979 and 1982, when the city's activists, campaigners and musicians collaborated to organise regular anti-racism events. Lee's artworks betray inspirations as diverse as German Expressionist woodcuts, Soviet Constructivist film posters and Paris 68 screen prints. Back in the '80s, they were fly-posted all over Hull. Today, you'll find them conveniently displayed just down the road.

"I'm Proud to be part of the Rich Mix Revolution programme of events commemorating the Russian Revolution of 1917. It seems perfectly fitting that these posters, produced by community arts activists, should have their London premiere at this leading London community arts centre," says Lees. The free exhibition, Hull Rock Against Racism, is on at Rich Mix from 3 to 26 May. For more information visit: www.richmix.org.uk/

ONE2 Festival

12-24 May, London Fields Taproom and Brewhouse, E8

CABARET, poetry, sculpture, dance, film, music... it's all going on at the new ONE2 festival this May, the first in Hackney to bring together quite so many different artistic forms.

Highlights will include Norman Bailey, the famed storyteller, opening the first night along with Cabaret Rouge. Then award-winning filmmaker Drew Cox will be premiering a new short on 16 May, after which there will be a jazz evening, classical music, a rock'n'roll costume ball and a family painting workshop... Phew.

Most of the events are individually ticketed, but the festival organisers (a partnership of artists going by the name Diversity of Unit) have made free talks and workshops available to local people and schools. It's all for a good cause too, many of the artists involved have donated work to be raffled off, with proceeds going to refugee charity CARE international. Individual events are ticketed at different prices, but all access passes are available for £75. For more information visit: www.one2festival.co.uk

Platform for success

The Skinners' Academy winning team comprised of Salise Buldu, Sezen Gungor, Yaw Opoku, Ionut Tiplea and Briana Williams

STUDENTS from Skinners' Academy have won a capital-wide award backed by the Prince of Wales.

A team of 14 and 15-year-old entrepreneurs took first prize in the London regional final of the Mosaic Enterprise Challenge, a national competition that aims to inspire business skills and confidence in secondary school students.

The Skinners' pupils, who called themselves Team YouTe@ch, pitched their winning idea – a video sharing platform for schools focused on revision and careers issues – to a Dragon's Den-style panel of judges, which included Roxana Mohammadian, CEO of Paros Capital.

Team members Salise Buldu, 14; Sezen Gungor, 15; Yaw Opoku, 14; Ionut Tiplea, 14; and Briana Williams, 15, said: "Mosaic has taught us teamwork, dedication and determination. We're looking forward to the grand finals and potentially developing our idea as a feasible business that will support schools and our community."

The team's next challenge will be the overall final on 17 May, where they will compete against schools from across the UK in the hope of becoming national champions, to win £2,500 for their school and receive a further £500 to develop their idea.

Robyn Brown, London regional manager for Mosaic, said: "Team YouTe@ch wowed the judges with their brilliant idea, but I have to say that the standard of all the teams was extremely high.

"I am very proud that London is home to so many brilliant young minds."

News in brief

Shakespeare, rattle and roll

IF music be the food of love, then Hackney Empire's presentation of 'Love's Labour's Lost' should have young people falling head over heels for William Shakespeare.

The Royal Academy of Music's production of Shakespeare's tale of true love and coming of age has been updated with a score of rock and pop tunes from Tony Award-winner Alex Timbers to appeal to a young audience, and Hackney schools are being offered free tickets to the show.

The first four schools to apply will also be offered free workshops for up to 30 students.

Dan Bowling, head of musical theatre at the Royal Academy, said: "I thought it was time for our musical theatre company to raise the roof with this exciting rock/pop score and modern adaptation of 'Love's Labour's Lost'. I'm incredibly proud of what our company has achieved thus far and can't wait to see them 'rock out' the Hackney Empire with this great material."

The show has been given a PG13 rating in the US. This means that admission will be granted to people of all ages, but that parental guidance is suggested in the case of children under the age of 13.

The production will run from 29 June to 2 July. Schools can book free tickets via the Hackney Empire box office on: 020 8985 2424, quoting 'school offer'. Maximum 60 tickets a school. For further details about the workshops contact Open Academy at: openacademy@ram.ac.uk

Helping graduates to take the next big step

A NEW employability programme aims to help graduates from East London who are seeking work or need help to find better job opportunities.

Hosted by Loughborough University London, in partnership with the London Legacy Development Corporation, 'The Big Step' was a four-day programme for graduates in Hackney, Waltham Forest, Newham, and Tower Hamlets.

Attendees took advantage of networking exercises, careers advice and talks from industry experts, to help build their confidence and professional skills.

Graduates can also apply for the Inspiring Success programme, a two day employability workshop taking place at Loughborough's London campus over the summer.

Attendees are then invited to apply for one of ten Inspiring Success scholarships, which provide 100 per cent funding to study on one of its postgraduate programmes.

Jasnoot Mudhar, who graduated with an MSc in Internet Media Clouds with Business, said: "The Inspiring Success scholarship gave me an opportunity to analyse myself in terms of strengths and skills. It enabled me to think positively and opened a door of opportunity."

Professor Mike Caine, Dean at Loughborough University London, added: "The Big Step will support graduates in reaching their future career goals, whether through postgraduate study or professional career guidance."

Vanessa's story

Vanessa Sarpong, left, from Clapton, had started making plans to relocate to Ghana until she found out about The Big Step.

She said: "I have a better understanding of the business side to the media industry. I've made some great contacts and I'm really making the most of the opportunities Loughborough University London has given to me. Education is important but you really have to add the networking element to it."

Raise a glass to mindfulness

Three of the top 10 Club Soda venues in Hackney: Zigfrid von Underbelly, All Bar One and Electricity Showrooms

ACCORDING to research, almost 40 per cent of residents aged under 24 are teetotal.

So they are all likely to raise a non-alcoholic glass to a new list of the borough's top 10 venues for 'mindful drinkers'.

The ranking has been drawn up by Club Soda, a start-up with a mission to support people who want to change their drinking habits.

It launched its 'Club Soda Guide' last year, scoring venues across the country according to their provision for 'mindful drinkers' and teetotallers.

There are 95 Hackney venues featured in the guide, but this latest list highlights the very best places from among its 'five star' category, which is reserved for those with a good range of low or no alcohol beers and ciders, as well as a wide selection of sodas, soft drinks and mocktails on their menus (see list, left).

Guide founder, Laura Willoughby MBE, said: "We know there is an appetite from everyone for a grown-up conversation about mindful drinking – sourcing the best products, publicising the best venues, and adding more dimensions to a night in the pub – but we were bowled over by the enthusiasm of the venues and the customers."

News in brief

Help reshape health services

DO you have experience of using health and care services in Hackney? Are you interested in having a say on how they are reshaped in the future?

A partnership of health and social care organisations in Hackney is seeking public representatives for four groups charged with joining up health and social care services in the following areas:

- Unplanned care
- Planned care
- Prevention
- Early years and children

The reps will play an important role in ensuring the work carried out in each group includes service user perspectives. These roles will contribute to making residents the centre of the local health and care system. Hackney & City: Health and Social Care Transformation is a partnership to improve health and wellbeing for Hackney and City of London residents.

The partners include the Council, City and Hackney Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG), Homerton hospital and Healthwatch Hackney. Applications close 5 May. For details, visit: www.healthwatchhackney.co.uk; or e-mail: info@healthwatchhackney.co.uk

This café is dead good...

WE need to talk about death. That, at least, is the argument behind St Joseph's Hospice's annual Death Café event.

This year it will be held during Dying Matters Week (8 to 14 May) and aims to enable people to talk about their feelings, fears and wishes relating to death. It is an afternoon tea where informal conversations about death and dying can take place. Its organisers claim that the most surprising element of the event is always the laughter that fills the room. Discussions of death, they say, needn't always be glum. After all, it is the one thing we can guarantee is going to happen to all of us, so why not discuss it while we still can?

The Death Café will take place at St Joseph's Hospice at 2pm, on 10 May. To book a place, e-mail: c.learner@stjh.org.uk; or call: 020 8525 3208.

Care service rated 'outstanding' for being safe and well-led

Age UK East London's care service rated as outstanding

AGE UK East London has been rated 'outstanding' for its domiciliary care service.

The rating places the service in the top four per cent of care providers in England.

The organisation was inspected by the Care Quality Commission

(CQC) in March, when it was praised for being safe and well-led.

It was also rated 'good' for being effective, caring and responsive.

Debbie Ivanova, CQC's deputy chief inspector of adult social care, said: "I am delighted that Age UK East London has achieved an outstanding rating overall.

"What made this service so special was the whole organisation's commitment to keeping people safe and to continually improve the care they received."

Jane Caldwell, CEO of Age UK East London, added: "This is a very challenging time for domiciliary care providers and so we were delighted the CQC recognised the dedication of our staff and volunteers who are so committed to supporting older people in our community."

Giving your garden a spring clean?

Put grass, weeds and cuttings in your brown bin or bag and leave the rest to us.

Recipes straight from the ovens at Waterhouse

www.waterhouserestaurant.co.uk

THIS is the latest in a series of regular recipes courtesy of Waterhouse, a social enterprise restaurant alongside the Regent's Canal in Shoreditch. Spring has definitely sprung and our tastebuds are demanding something suitably light and fresh. The Waterhouse chefs explain how to make this salad, which can be the perfect light lunch or even a starter.

Goat cheese asparagus salad

Serves 5

Preparation time 15 mins
Cooling time 20 mins

Ingredients

- 300g peas
- 300g broad beans
- 25g mint
- 500g goat cheese
- 10 whole asparagus
- 50g beetroot
- 100ml oil
- 20ml white wine vinegar
- 10g parsley.

- Prepare an ice bath to cool the beetroot down in
- Once cooled, peel the skin off and finely dice the beetroot. Add 100ml of oil and 10g chopped parsley
- Cook the peas and broad beans for 2-5 mins, then cool down in an ice bath
- Once cooled, remove the broad beans from the pod
- Trim the ends of the asparagus and cook until soft
- Sauté the peas and broad beans in a pan and add the mint
- Prepare the asparagus on the grill and toast the cheese under the grill until golden
- Combine all the ingredients and complete the dish with the beetroot salsa.

Method

- Boil two pots of water, one with white wine vinegar, the other without
- Slice the cheese an inch wide
- Cook the beetroot in the water and white wine vinegar for 20 mins until soft

Waterhouse - through Blue Marble Training - supports young people across the borough towards careers in the restaurant industry. Owned by Shoreditch Trust, income from this enterprise goes back into training programmes across the borough. Waterhouse in Orsman Road, N1, is open Mon to Fri, 9am - 3pm. Evenings and weekends available for large bookings and private events. For more info, visit: www.waterhouserestaurant.co.uk For bookings e-mail: eat@waterhouserestaurant.co.uk; or call: 020 7033 0123.

Have your say on pedestrian-only zone at Crondall Street

RESIDENTS views about proposals for a pedestrian-only zone around a school in Hoxton are currently being sought by the Council.

The pilot scheme in Crondall Street, N1, will make it safer and easier for children to walk and cycle to St John the Baptist School.

The proposals include the road temporarily becoming a pedestrian and bicycle only zone for 45 minutes, twice a day.

If approved, it is anticipated that the trial will start in June and run for nine months.

A decision will then be made on whether the scheme should become permanent or not.

The deadline for responses is 5 May.

To find out more about this consultation, or to complete a questionnaire, visit: hackney.gov.uk/school-streets

St John the Baptist School in Crondall Street, Hoxton

The scheme proposes that Crondall Street will become a pedestrian and cyclist only zone between 8.30am to 9.15am and 3.15pm to 4pm.

- Residents will be able to enter and exit the street if they register their vehicles for an exemption
- Signage erected at the entrance to Crondall Street from Pitfield Street will inform drivers of the restrictions
- Cameras will be used to enforce the restrictions on non-registered vehicles entering Crondall Street during the above times
- Non-registered vehicles contravening the traffic order will be automatically issued with a penalty charge notice.

The Mayor and councillors

Councillors are elected by residents and serve for four years. The last borough-wide elections took place in May 2014. Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee Council services.

They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see. Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – see map below.

MAYOR PHILIP GLANVILLE

Hackney's executive Mayor Philip Glanville, was directly elected by the borough in September 2016. He is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. The Mayor holds monthly casework surgeries in the Town Hall. To book an appointment, e-mail: mayor@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 3269. Residents are first encouraged to contact their ward councillor. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of Hackney who is chosen annually from the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Rosemary Sales.
